Changes

This edition of The Evergreen features graduates from the fall of 1991 through the spring of 1993. During this time span, many changes have come to Salisbury State. We have had the completion of Fulton Hall, The threatening of our majors and the integrity of this institution by the Board of Regents, and the loss of many of our friends.

Reflecting back on the times at SSU, the friendships made, the obstacles overcome and each of life's lessons learned, we are all the better for our experiences at Salisbury State.

As we eagerly anticipate the journey that lies ahead, and as each graduate walks across the stage during commencement, there is great pride that each individual carries with them the knowledge, spirit, wisdom and traditions that were acquired as a member of the campus community.

STUDENT LIFE

Moving Normal?

Most college students today find moving to be a normal part of their life. If you live on campus, you must move in during the fall, be out by Christmas, move back in the spring and be out by Friday of exam week. Also, if you decide to stay for winter or summer term you must move again to a new dorm or off campus and move back to your original dorm for the semester. This does not make sense to most but it is a way of life for college students all around the country.

Moving for most went smoothly this year. At the beginning of each semester moving crews consisting of sports teams were ready to help all in settling into their rooms.

ADMINISTRATION

To the graduating classes of 1991, 1992 and 1993,

I congratulate you on your hard work and dedication in achieving one of the most important goals in life--obtaining your college degree. But I believe you will find your years here with us to be unique and of value in ways you have not yet begun to realize.

The ability to experience success and happiness will be in the use of your talents as you expand your horizons and prove your individuality.

Thomas E. Bellavance
President

Salisbury State University is a very special place to me and my family, and I am sure it is and will continue to be a very special place to you as well. As time continues to move forward Salisbury State University will become even more meaningful in your memory. Please know that your contributions have been appreciated and that our University community will always invite and welcome your return.

Congratulations and best wishes for your future success.

Joseph Gilbert
Vice President of Administration

The academic year of 1992-1993 was a challenging one for the faculty. Almost a third of our programs were under review and the response was arduous but salutary. We are a premier public academic institution on the Atlantic seaboard and are supported by an increasingly talented student body, a highly competent faculty and diligent administration.

K. Nelson Butler

It gives me great pleasure to commend this edition of The Evergreen to our campus community. As a part of that, I want to congratulate and laud the graduates who appear here. In achieving their degrees these men and women have demonstrated their dedication and commitment to becoming educated persons through general education and through success in their major fields of study. During their undergraduate years, they have conducted themselves with integrity, and they have strengthened their powers of critical and creative thinking. As they go forward to serve society through work and further study, these men and women are the representatives of Salisbury State University.

The accomplishments of our graduates and of our continuing students are also reflections of our academic community. That community shines brightly in the pages of this yearbook, and my appreciation is great for all whose efforts are presented here and all who have made this yearbook possible. All of us salute our graduates with pride, and together we recognize with gratitude that our campus community is a place to live and grow academically and personally in many ways depicted in The Evergreen.

Florence Fay Pritchard, Ph.D.
Associate Vice President of Academic Affairs

1992 marked a year of transition for Salisbury State as M. P. Minton, Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid retired after 22 a year of association with the University. Joining the staff in 1970 as Director of Housing, Mr. Minton began a career which culminated in being named Dean in 1983. Under Mr. Minton, the standard for new admissions was increased to a new level. Furthermore, having an interest in athletics, he was instrumental in bringing a strong football program to SSU in the '70's. SSU will always benefit from Mr. Minton's contributions and his absence is strongly felt.

M. P. Minton III retired Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid

The class of 1993 entered with a record breaking academic profile and leaves the University as the largest graduating class in history. Their enthusiasm and commitment to Salisbury State University has influenced other students with similar academic goals to attend the University. I look forward to hearing of your success.

FRANKLIN P. PERDUE SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Salisbury State University is a great place to be! Prior to coming to SSU, I had spent a number of years at two other institutions. One evident factor here is that faculty, students, and other administrators focus toward common goals. This focus manifests itself in the cooperative "can do" spirit I see every day in my job. I really like the students here at SSU. Our graduates are outstanding and I am sure this will continue in the future.

Richard F. Bebee, Ph. D.
Dean of Perdue School

Franklin P. Perdue School of Business

On May 1, 1992, Fulton Hall was dedicated by the Governor. Although all the speakers mentioned what a wonderful addition the building would be to the campus, they only got to see it on one lovely spring day. I get to work in it daily and this is what I get to experience:

- students building scenery for a production in the black-box theatre. I am always amazed that what looks flat and phony in the shop is transformed by lighting and love into a whole world.
- the Psi Chi initiation in the auditorium. As a professor discusses his struggles to design a Ph. D. research project dependent on the cooperation of chickens, the students suddenly begin to ask questions as if they are colleagues, rather than undergraduates waiting for the expert. The pleasure and excitement of good conversation last through the cake and punch.
- students and faculty putting their heads together in offices up and down the second floor hallways. Are they discussing what to take next semester, going over the exam answers, or deciding how to spend a whole life?
- seniors displaying their art work in a Senior show in the new art gallery. Their opening night jitters give way to calm professionalism as parents, spouses, faculty, friends and community members give the same attention to their works as they would those in the National Gallery.
- a panel of students reading poetry and fiction they have written, coloring many issues but mostly those relating to sex or death. Is life for an author really that grim? Is life for a college student really that grim?

Every morning, Fulton Hall, so beautiful and functional but so dead like at night, comes alive as students and faculty talk and listen, sketch, make music, analyze, emote, create, read, eat, compute, laugh and think. The liberal arts have found a very good home.

Sharon Rubin, Ph.D.
Dean of the Fulton School of Liberal Arts

The Henson School of Science and Technology includes the departments of biological sciences, chemistry, geography and regional planning, mathematics and computer science and physics. The mission of the school is to provide students with information so they might function as informed and responsible citizens on issues of science and technology. This knowledge is to serve students in recognizing, evaluating and making decisions about scientific concerns.

Dr. Phillip D. Creighton Dean of the Henson School of Science and Technology

Richard A. Henson School of Science and Technology

Salisbury State University which originated nearly 70 years ago as a 2-year normal school has grown to its current status as a center for excellence with the vigorous support of the communities it serves. The School of Education and Professional Studies, which houses programs that are specifically designed to prepare students to serve communities, has been and continues to be central to the growth in size and quality the University now enjoys.

This is a particularly dynamic time for people pursuing careers in fields serving the common good. Whether teachers, social workers, physical education majors, or leisure studies specialists, the requirements placed on graduates in these uncertain and ever changing times are unique in the annals of the human species. Salisbury State University excels in preparing professionals in these fields who have a profound and limitless impact on the lives of the citizens they serve. Salisbury State University is proud of its community service orientation and in the professionals prepared to serve the needs of society.

Doran Christensen, Ph.D.

Dean of the School of Education and Professional Studies

TO

STUDENTS AGAINST DRIVING DRUNK's purpose is to enable concerned, responsible students to respond in a practical way to a major killer of their age group, drunk driving. The program combines abuse prevention with practical solutions to DWI situations.

STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY DINING SERVICES purpose is to allow members to plan and implement social, cultural and educational programs. SUDS sponsors Buck Nite and Las Vegas Night.

SALISBURY STATE PROGRAM BOARD's purpose is to present a diverse and well-rounded schedule of social, recreational, educational and multi-cultural activities for SSU students. SSPB activities include concerts, films, comedians, coffeehouses, trips, variety acts, multicultural events and recreational activities. The annual dances include Homecoming and the Spring Formal.

THE FLYER NEWSPAPER is dedicated to informing the campus of recent happenings and news that affects students and to act as a forum for expressing individual viewpoints. The Flyer began as the Holly Leaf in the mid 1940's, then changed to The Flyer in 1978 and was changed from a traditional newspaper style to newsmagazine. In 1990 it was returned to a weekly format.

THE EVERGREEN, SSU's yearbook, serves as a memory book collection of pictures and anecdotes; a history, resource/reference book; and a public relations agent for the school. Hope you like it.

SCARAB LITERARY MAGAZINE encourages the creative arts expression through poetry, short story and art work through recognition in its annual publication. All material is original work submitted by SSU students.

RESIDENCE

WHAT DOES A RESIDENT ASSISTANT DO?

The Resident Assistant is a part-time member of the Residence Life staff. The RA assist the comprehensive student life program in an undergraduate dorm. The RA is responsible for assisting students individually and in groups. The RA is the primary facilitator of the development of community.

The RA has to know the names and pertinent information about the residents. They must maintain a high profile and be approachable and receptive. They must promote awareness of cultural diversity and encourage involvement of residents in activities. They must confront and document inappropriate behavior and mediate conflicts. They should encourage students who are having difficulty to seek additional help from campus resources.

They also plan and conduct social activities along with residents. They communicate regularly with residents through bulletin boards, floor meetings and informal contact. They assist in establishing norms and in accepting responsibility for dorm issues.

As a staff member they must attend a spring retreat and attend training workshops. They hold office hours and make rounds. They know the procedures for emergencies. They assist in the selection of new staff members and keep their Resident Directors informed. They also conduct room inspections.

WE ARE A

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORICAL AND PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

ALLIANCE FOR WOMEN ATTAINING RECOGNIZED EQUALITY is a group of women and men dedicated to eradicating sexism and intolerance of individuality. The group stands in solidarity with other victims of discrimination including racism, ethnocentrism, classism, heterosexism and ageism. They take a feminist approach to these issues as they seek equality for all people. They are committed to a vision of a just society and to changing current beliefs and institutions which encourage the violence against and degrading of women.

CELTIC CLUB, formed in 1992, was organized to promote the heritage, customs, languages and social practices of the British Isles; to offer an opportunity to research family geneology and to promote awareness of the Celtic peoples of the British Isles.

COMMUTERS CLUB was formed to improve commuter relationships on campus. The club formulates and maintains unity and awareness of commuter needs. It also organizes events and social activities for commuting students.

GAY AND LESBIAN ALLIANCE's purpose is to ensure that those in the gay, lesbian and bisexual campus community are not isolated. GALA believes that bisexuality and homosexuality are merely other orientations which co-exist with heterosexuality. GALA provides support through a peer network, addresses relevant issues and serves as an information source for all.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE at SSU is dedicated to improving the political, educational, social and economic status of minority groups; eliminating racial prejudice and keeping the public aware of the adverse effects of discrimination. The association will take all lawful action to secure the elimination of discrimination consistent with the efforts of the national association and in conformity with the articles of the incorporation of the association, its constitution and by-laws, and as directed by the national board of directors.

STRENGTH, COURAGE AND DETERMINATION INC. provides an opportunity for students to participate in and be a part of campus and community activities.

1991-1992 SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

Salisbury State's traditionally strong field hockey and men's lacrosse teams enjoyed successful campaigns once again during the 1991-1992 year but the men's basketball squad was unquestionably the "team- of-the-year" on the campus and in the community.

The 1991 fall season served as a welcome appetizer for the success that was to follow during the winter. The field hockey squad qualified for its eighth straight trip to the NCAA tournament and finished as the top-ranked team in the South Region. The women's volleyball team garnered its fifth straight Eastern States Athletic Conference championship. Also three women's tennis players won ESAC singles championships.

Enter men's basketball: Sparked by senior Andre Foreman, who would become NCAA Division III's all-time scoring leader by season's end, the Sea Gulls won 28 straight games and advanced as high as number two in the national poll. Playing before capacity crowds in the Maggs Center, SSU finished one game shy to the Final Four, falling in the NCAA Tournament's national quarterfinal round. Foreman was named national Player-of-the-Year, and Head Coach Ward Lambert, who won his 300th career game, was honored as the Atlantic Region Coach-of-the-Year.

The men's lacrosse team highlighted the spring season, winning 11 straight games and advancing to the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Six players earned all-American honors as the Gulls finished 12-2 for the year. The men's tennis team and women's softball squads each repeated as ESAC champions as well.

1992-1993 SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

The fall of 1992 sports season brought success at nearly every turn for the Sea Gulls. The field hockey team advanced to the NCAA Final Four for the first time since 1988 and finished the year 12-7-1 overall. The women's tennis team had its most wins in recent years, finishing 7-2 with three conference singles champions. The men's soccer team set a school-record for wins during a 13-2-1 season that earned two player all-South Region honors and Head Coach Gerry DiBartolo South Regional Coach-of-the-Year status.

The men's basketball team did not quite equal the accomplishments of the previous year but enjoyed another solid campaign with a final 18-8 record. The Gulls also won ESAC championship for the third straight year and finished as the nation's top scoring team at 98.1 points per game.

The spring of 1993 was dominated by the men's lacrosse squad, which held the number one ranking in the weekly poll for the entire regular season. SSU enjoyed unblemished regular season run at 13-0 but lost the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals for a second straight year. The men's tennis team won its fifth straight ESAC crown and the softball team claimed its third straight conference championship. The men's and women's track teams also reached unparalleled highs, qualifying a best-ever six runners for the NCAA Division III national championship meet.

REAL NEWS

A World of Change

As the years have passed, many changes have come.

The campus of Salisbury State University has not been immune to change. Since the publishing of the last edition of The Evergreen in 1991, the University has grown tremendously in many ways. Our student body has grown to approximately 6,000 students, some of our academic departments have become accredited, and the Perdue School has been granted a deferral on its pursuit of a much sought after AACSB accreditation.

While many of the changes that have affected the University have been positive, some have not. Shortly before the end of the fall 1992 semester, the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland System launched a systematic attempt to dismantle the state university system. What was geared to result in the betterment of the flagship campus, College Park, would ultimately result in great harm to the missions of SSU and the other campuses in the UMS System. Salisbury State was being penalized for excelling. Its chemistry department, recently nationally accredited, was being slated for elimination; its graduate nursing program was slated for elimination; medical technology, sociology, Spanish...all proposed cuts to the curriculum.

All in all, the University has emerged virtually unscathed from the Regents' attack. The resounding response from the faculty, staff and students resulted in several cooperative programs being formed in conjunction with the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, most of our majors being retained, and the Regents receiving their money. The coming together of the campus community resulted in Salisbury State remaining what it has grown to be in its almost 70 year history.

SSU faculty members considered every possible action including a drive to privatize the University in order to avoid cuts proposed by the Board of Regents.

Students and faculty rally to save SSU. Hundreds of students, faculty and staff marched together during finals week of the fall of 1992 semester to protest the Regents' actions.

Governor William Donald Schaefer was on hand to address the guests at the dedication of Fulton Hall.

Many distinguished guests were on hand for the ribbon-cutting ceremony dedicating the new Fulton Hall, home of the Charles R. and Martha N. Fulton School of Liberal Arts.

Charles and Martha Fulton, who endowed the School of Liberal Arts, cut the ribbon opening the new building.

SOVIET UNION COLLAPSES

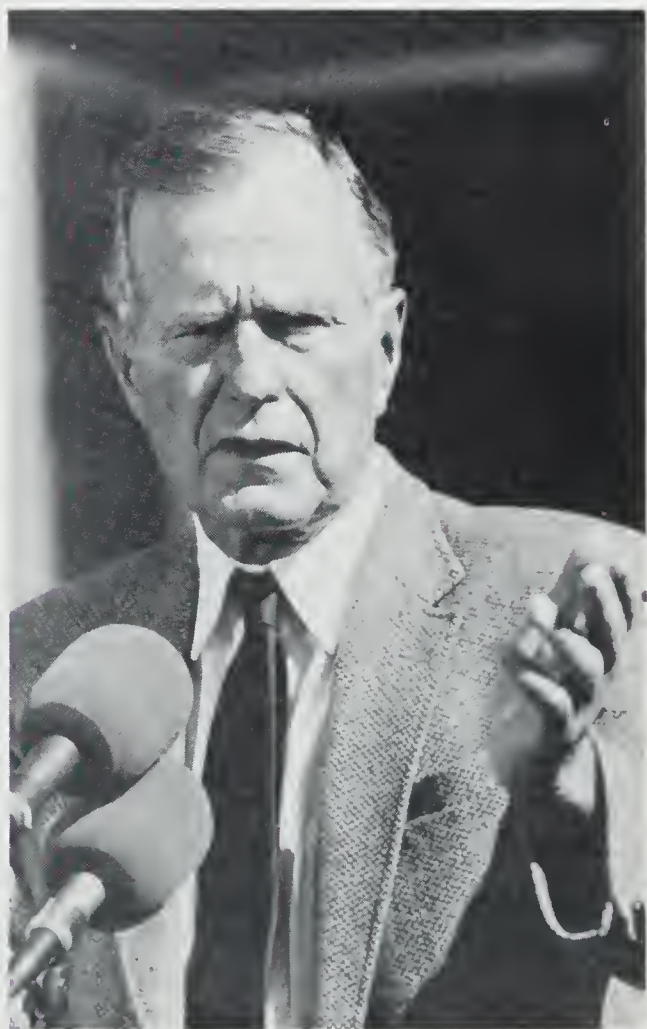

Europe has seen much change in the past two years. The coup against Mikhail Gorbachev in the Soviet Union followed by US and European Community intervention in an attempt to return Gorbachev to power; the dismantling of the Iron Curtain and the return of the individual republics including Russia with its leader Boris Yeltsin. Communist rule in the Soviet Union ended and a new series of reforms and changes were in the making with results that will continue for years to come.

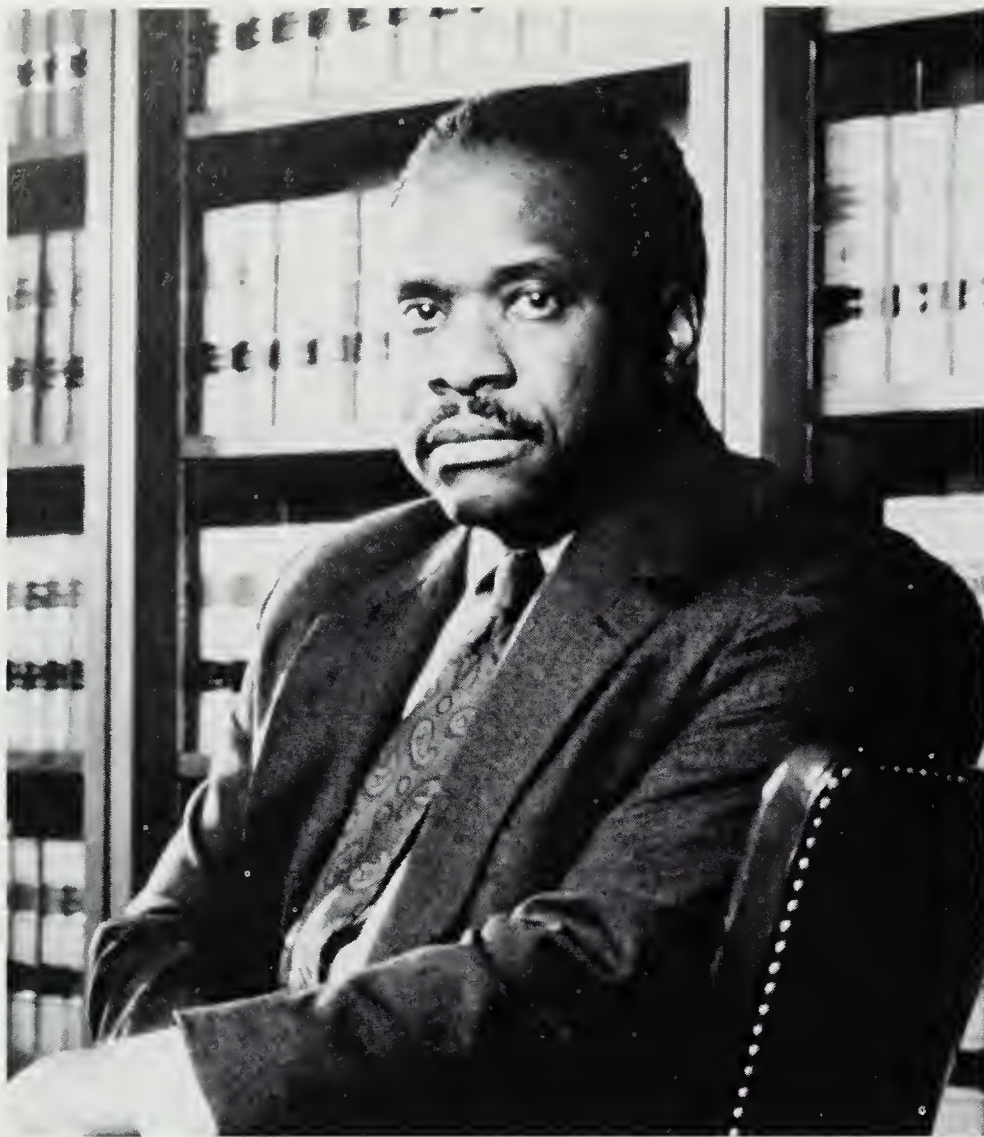

The change continued in our own country as a new generation made its call for reform. With the upcoming presidential election, many people threw their hat into the ring including Bill Clinton, the Governor of Arkansas, who made an unprecedented appearance on the Arsenio Hall Show with his trademark saxophone. Bill Clinton "the cure for the blues."

H. Ross Perot, a billionaire businessman, made a bid for the presidency as an independent. He then made history not by backing out of the race, but by doing so and then jumping back in.

George Herbert Walker Bush was the incumbent wrestling with major world problems, but even bigger domestic issues caused this President to have troubles at home. The 1992 election would speak for the masses, ending a 12 year Republican hold on the White House.

A Change in The Court

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall stepped down from the high court for the last time and after a lifelong journey of overcoming prejudices and ensuring equal justice, Marshall soon passed away leaving us reflecting on the contributions that he made.

Clarence Thomas was nominated by President Bush to replace the retiring Supreme Court justice. Thomas was confirmed by the U.S. Senate nearly three months later after a series of hearings on sexual harassment charges were brought against him.

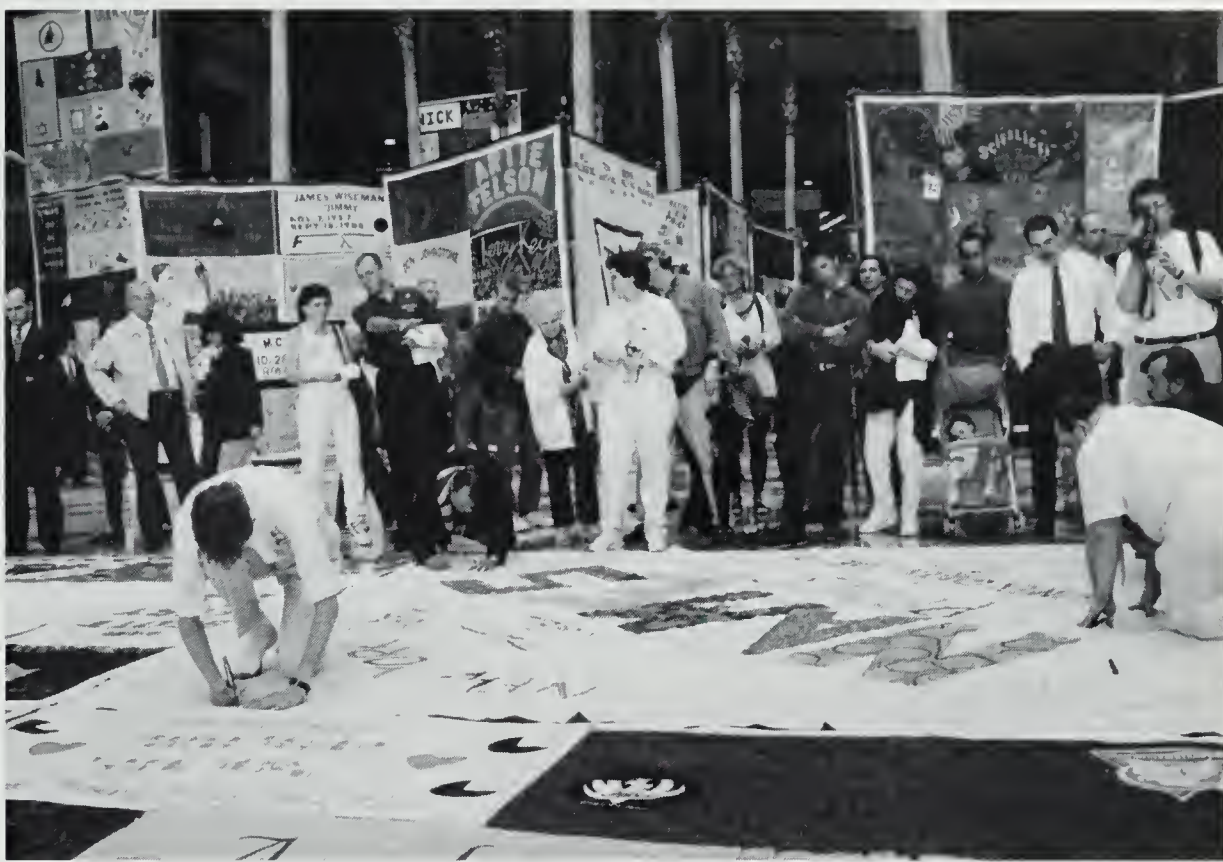

Anita Hill, a law professor at the University of Oklahoma, worked for Thomas and claimed that he sexually harassed her during her association as an assistant at the E.E.O.C. with the future justice. The issue was heard before the Senate Judiciary Committee and then Thomas' confirmation was then debated and voted on by the full Senate.

For the first time, professional athletes were allowed to compete in the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain. Part of the "Dream Team," the U.S. basketball team consisted of Magic Johnson, who recently announced that he has been infected with the HIV-virus.

As the world keeps changing, so does the impact that AIDS has on the world population. A recent study predicts that more than 25 million people will have the disease before the end of the decade. As no cure still exists, and as the disease continues to claim thousands of victims, people signed panels of the AIDS Memorial Quilt in New York before moving on to a 35-city national tour.

A People Filled With Hope

The air filled with cheers as William Jefferson Clinton was sworn into office as the 42nd president of the United States on January 20, 1993. As Clinton spoke of change, the voters responded with a resounding ear. The time had come for a new generation to take over. The current world problems and domestic issues were now in the hands of the baby boomers. President Clinton brought talk of economic recovery, talk of world peace, talk of a change for the better. Clinton brought the hope of a time of healing.

Coming from a poor background in Hope, Arkansas, a main element of Clinton's success rested in the ability of one to hope. As we pass to a new time in our lives, trying to overcome the obstacles that we encounter in life; as the world keeps changing, as we bring on this change; let us keep the ability to hope for something better and the resources to achieve the ideals for which we strive.

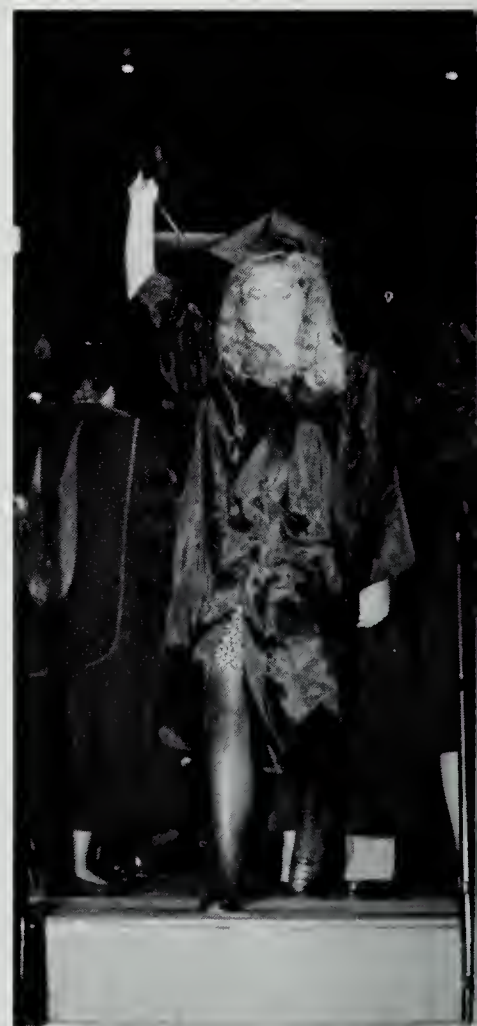

THE NEW ALUMNI

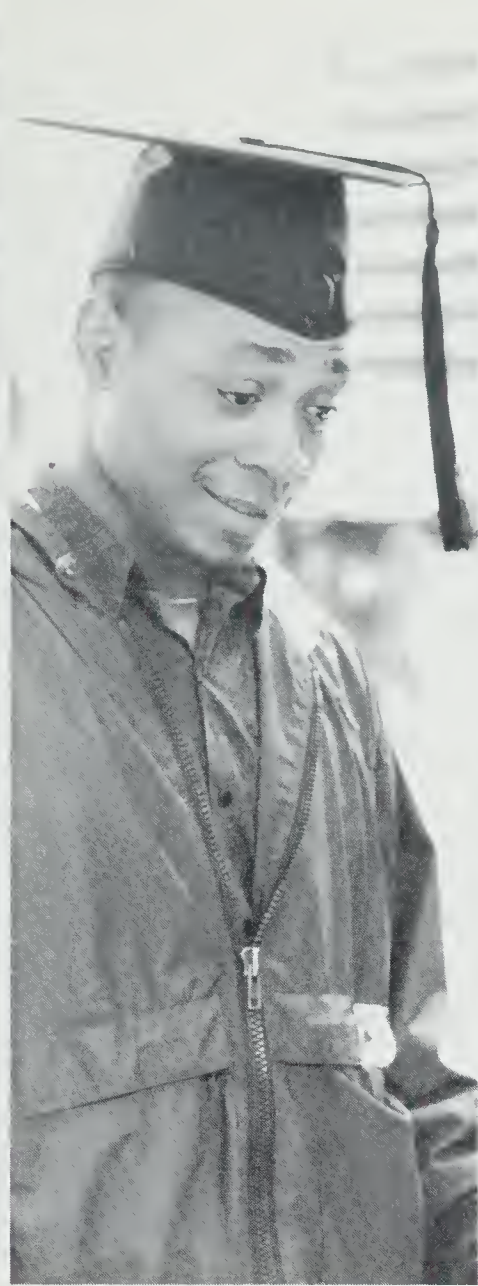

Welcome to the "real world"

As the procession of graduates entered the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center, many soon to be alumni were overcome with emotion. . . realizing that this was goodbye to many of our friends, realizing that we now had to enter the "real world", and realizing that we were leaving SSU.

As degrees were awarded, the sadness was replaced by the happiness of the occasion and by the satisfaction in knowing that finally receiving the degree was worth all of the hard work.

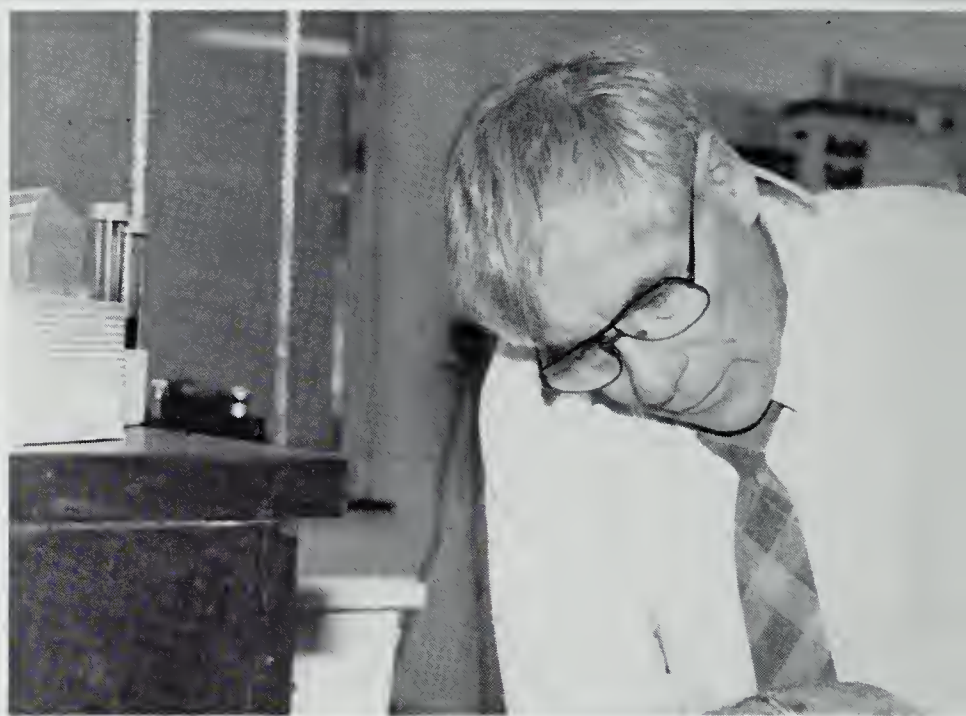

In Memoriam

DR. PETER KERNAGHAN

MARCH 26, 1933 - DECEMBER 12, 1992

Most people remember the happy times of their college years, but there are also tragic events that have an impact on the campus community. Many students reminisce about the unfortunate deaths of professors and fellow students, and the effect these incidents have had on their lives. SSU students and faculty have many fond memories of those who have passed away and the absence of those individuals continue to be felt in the classrooms and around campus. Although many students have learned to cope with these losses, those who can no longer be with us remain in our hearts and minds. Those who have passed on will continue to live on in spirit at SSU.

Dr. Peter Kernaghan is remembered by students and faculty as a caring professor, with great knowledge of his field. Dr. Kernaghan came to Salisbury in 1975 as a professor in the department of Biological Sciences, and he promoted the development of new graduate programs. Dr. Kernaghan had a positive influence on his students and the campus as a whole.
